Pain Grips Trapped Soldier

Trapped in the cab of their Army ambulance when the vehicle overturned in an accident at the Chelsea North drawbridge, PFC Donald G. Gunsallus of Altoona, Pa., and PFC Clifford Thompson of White Plains, N. Y., were dramatically rescued today. Gunsallus, rescued before Thompson, died later at Chelsea Naval Hospital. Here, trapped Thompson clenches his fists in pain while police and firemen work to free him. Trapped for an hour and a half, Thompson was given plasma while pinned in the cab.

Search Plane, Five Others Missing in Florida

WHERE PLANES VANISHED

Search Launched for 6 Planes

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., Dec. 6 (AP)—A sixth airplane was reported overdue this morning by the Navy as hundreds of air and surface craft, including the small aircraft carrier Solomons, scoured the Atlantic coast from Mayport to south of Miami in search of five Navy torpedo bombing planes missing from Fort Lauderdale since late yesterday. The sixth plane reported missing was a PBM (Mariner) which left the Banana River Air Station last night to search for the bombers.

Each of the five bombers is believed to carry a pilot and a radio gunner. Officials of the Navy base here declined to say how many men were with the craft.

Although no official theory was made public, it was learned the Navy had received a report from the steamer Gaines Mills that members of the crew last night saw what they thought was an explosion. The exact position of the Gaines Mills was not given.

The missing bombers were due back at their base late yesterday. At 5:25 p. m. they reported by radio they had enough fuel for about 75 minutes more flying time.

The hunt is being carried on by hundreds of Army, Navy and Coast Guard planes from points all along the Florida east coast, as well as all available surface craft. Commercial vessels in the area were also asked to join the hunt.

In Washigton, the Navy Department said the search extended from the Bahamas to Jacksonville, Fla., and 150 miles out to sea. The Florida inland area is also being checked.

Rescue craft and planes are going out from Miami, Ft. Lauderdale, Jacksonville and Banana river.

U. S. Plane, 14 Aboard, Hunted in Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO, Dec. 6 (AP)—Search of the Argentine-Brazilian border area continued without result today for a U. S. Army C-47 transport plane missing since Monday with 14 passengers aboard.

The Brazilian air ministry said the Fifth Air Base headquarters at Porto Alegre reported no trace had been found of the plane, reported carrying a party of U. S. scientific explorers on a trip from Assuncion, Paraguay, to Montevideo, Uruguay.

Marshall Says:

Pearl Harbor Force Enough To Stop Japs

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (AP)—Gen. Marshall declared today the Army and Navy had enough strength at Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, 1941, to break up the Japanese attack and "greatly lessen" the damage.

Had the forces been alert and the attack smashed, Marshall told the joint Congressional Pearl Harbor investigating committee, the entire Japanese campaign of aggression would have been ruined.

Although the planes and guns at Pearl Harbor were never in profusion, Marshall testified, "they had at least the means to break up the attack so it could only have done limited harm."

Marshall said he meant that the entire garrison on the alert "couldn't have stopped the attack but could have disorganized it and shaken it off its targets, thereby greatly lessening the damage that was done."

The wartime chief of staff told the Senate-House committee investigating the Pearl Harbor attack the enemy was risking the great hazard of catastrophe itself.

"A surprise attack is either a triumph or a catastrophe," the five-star general explained.

He said if the Japanese had been detected and hit hard at Pearl Harbor that Sunday morning four years ago tomorrow, there would have been these results:

The Japanese advance into Malaya would have been halted. Their drive into Indo-China would have had to stop. The Burma Road, life-line to China, would not have been cut. Singapore would not have fallen.

Marshall also told the committee:

1—There was nothing at Allied conferences before Pearl Harbor that committed the U. S. to go to war unless attacked, and he knew of no such commitment by President Roosevelt or anyone else.

2—Early in 1941, he decided "to rob practically all combat pursuit squadrons in the United States of most of their P-36 planes" to bolster defenses of Hawaii. Thirty-one were sent.

Cars Skid On Ice-Glazed Highways

Traffic was disrupted and countless skidding accidents reported today as a northeast storm and winds up to 40 miles an hour lashed Greater Boston with driving rain which covered suburban highways with a treacherous icy glaze.

State Police said the Concord, Worcester and Newburyport turnpikes were coated with ice and hundreds of cars were unable to climb hills.

Worst driving conditions were reported in western Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Vermont and southern Maine. The Weather Bureau said the freezing would end late today, although the rain would continue through Friday.

Pounding surf poured through the damaged seawall at Winthrop but no serious damage was reported.

Gusts of 50 miles an hour were reported at Chatham.

Icy highways at Peterboro, N. H., were blamed for an accident in which more than 2000 bottles of whisky were smashed when a tractor and trailer skidded.

Bomb Hurled, Misses Egypt's Ex-Premier

LONDON, Dec. 6 (AP—A Reuter's dispatch from Cairo said a bomb was hurled today at Nahas Pasha, leader of the Wafdist party and former premier of Egypt. He escaped injury.

FARMED OUT—A Los Angeles judge must decide if Marie MacDonald, former Dorchester film star, was "farmed out" to another studio after she had been promised that one studio would develop her and her body into a finished actress. She charges breach of contract.

Ahoy Thar Mate, What Ho!

William Van Leer of East Broadway, South Boston, was the most surprised man in the world today when he found himself tossing in his rowboat in the high winds with no oars.

He set out from South Boston public landing to reach his large boat in the harbor, but left the oars on shore. Police boat William H. McShane rescued him after he had tossed on the surf for an hour.

Dean Acheson Upset Iran, Hurley Charges

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (INS)—Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley today named Undersecretary of State Dean Acheson as the individual who "destroyed" American foreign policy in Iran. Hurley also made public at the second day of hearings into American foreign policy, a document, signed by leaders of the "Big Three" on Dec. 1, 1943, in which they had announced their adherence to the principles of the Atlantic Charter.

HERO'S KIN HONORED—Com. David McCampbell presents a photo of the U. S. S. Wasp to Mrs. John J. Shea of Arlington and her son, Jackie, 8, who received the most famous father-to-son letter of World War II. Shea was lost when the Wasp was sunk. Presentation was made in New York. Associated Press Photo

"There has been a lot of conversation and reports in the press about the Atlantic Charter never being a document signed by the Big Three," Hurley declared, "but here is the signature of the leaders of the three nations endorsing the principles of the Atlantic Charter."

The document produced by Hurley was the "Declaration of Iran," which carried the following words . . . "In accordance with the principles of the Atlantic Charter to which all four governments have subscribed."

It was signed by Roosevelt, Stalin and Churchill.

Acheson's name was drawn into the hearing as a result of questions by Sen. Connally, who ran through the long list of nations in which Hurley had served as President Roosevelt's personal emissary.

Connally asked in each instance if State Department officials or others had interfered with his missions, and Hurley answered in negative until Connally asked, "in Iran was there any interference?"

"Most decidedly," Hurley replied. "They destroyed American policy in Iran. The American policy was absolutely defeated."

"You have an idea that someone in the State Department . . ." Connally started to ask.

"It is no idea," Hurley shouted, "I know."

"Do you know who it was," Connally asked.

"I'll tell you," Hurley replied, loudly, "it was Dean Acheson."

"What did he do," Connally asked.

"I'd rather you get the documents," Hurley replied.

Hurley went into his charge that the United States policy in China was "hydra-headed."

He said the United States had 13 separate intelligence agencies in China.

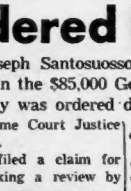
"Foreign relations in China are not being conducted through the statutory department set up by the government of the United States for that purpose," he testified.

Hurley testified that even if the men opposing him had succeeded in their objective of arming the Chinese Communists, with resultant civil strife in China, "we would have won the war."

Atty. Santosuosso Ordered Disbarred

Atty. Joseph Santosuosso, co-defendant with Mayor-elect Curley in the $85,000 General Equipment Corp. case of 1933, today was ordered disbarred in a ruling handed down by Supreme Court Justice Stanley E. Qua.

Santosuosso filed a claim for exceptions, seeking a review by the full bench of the Supreme Court.



Atty. Santosuosso

The petition for his disbarment was brought by the Boston Bar Ass'n and heard by Justice Qua, sitting as a single justice.

The decision stated Santosuosso received a check for $85,000 for his client, the General Equipment Corp., in settlement of the firm's action against the city of Boston for water damage during construction of Kenmore sq. tunnel.

"Out of the proceeds of this check he retained $40,000 cash, causing his client to believe the respondent was to pay this money as a bribe to the then mayor of Boston," Judge Qua declared.

"I find that the respondent either actually did pay said sum of $30,000 to the mayor as a bribe or deceitfully, fraudulently and corruptly misappropriated said sum.

"Upon either alternative, I find that the conduct of the respondent was utterly inconsistent with his duty as a citizen and with his obligations as attorney at law.

"I find that, at that time, he was unfit to practice law and I see no sufficient reason to believe that his character has changed. I find that he is still unfit to practice law."

Rita Hayworth Will Sue Orson Welles for Divorce

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Copyright, 1945, by Los Angeles Examiner

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 6—It's all over and finished and through for the marriage of Rita Hayworth and Orson Welles. The beautiful glamor girl who married the self-styled "genius" on Sept. 7, 1943, has lived to regret that marriage of two years ago. Rita said:

"There is truth to the rumor our separation is being discussed, and we will issue a joint statement." That is all she would say but I happen to know that Rita will sue for divorce. She is leaving Welles because life with the temperamental "genius" was just too much.

Rita is an extremely sweet girl with a marvelously even disposition and she has many friends in Hollywood. Those closest to her are not so much surprised by this separation as they have been wondering how the ill matched union happened to last this long.

Orson Welles

Welles has a colossal ambition and he isn't modest about the fields of his endeavors. His activities extend from writing, directing, radio commenting and politics clear down to magic shows in which he exploited Rita being cut in half!

At the time of their marriage there was a great deal of feeling because many people resented Welles, a civilian, cutting in on the definite engagement that existed between Rita and Coast Guardsman Victor Mature at the time.

So the marriage really started under a cloud. But Rita was really in love with Welles and she retired from the screen for a year to await the birth of the daughter born to them early this year.

'Shot Pa Like a Hog'

Boy, 15, Backs Mother's Triangle

VIENNA, Mo., Dec. 6 (AP)—Prosecuting Attorney Hamp Rothwell said last night that Ben French, 43-year-old Ozarks farmer had signed a statement he tried without success to hire four men at various times to murder Henry Westerman, a neighbor.

Gene Westerman

Mrs. Edna Westerman

First degree murder charges have been filed against French and against Westerman's wife, Edna, and son, Gene, in connection with the shooting of Westerman, Monday.

Rothwell said 15-year-old Gene, a high school freshman, had signed a written confession earlier he shot his father after talking it over with his mother, and that he had been loaned a rifle by French.

The prosecutor said that Gene told him:

"I just shot pa down like I would a hog."

In his confession, French said "there is no one to blame but me for the killing of Henry Westerman. I did not kill him but I was the cause of it. I was afraid Henry would kill his wife, Edna. I think more of her than I do of myself. I will die knowing Henry will not beat up on her any more."

Neighbors have reported that French had been "keeping company" with the 31-year-old Mrs. Westerman, while her husband was working in a Kansas war plant.

Mrs. Westerman, being held in the county jail, appeared calm, saying she guessed the other four children were "at home with ma. Ben's my man and I am going to marry him when this all blows over."

Wall St. Has Sharp Spurt

NEW YORK, Dec. 6 (INS)—Speculators bought stocks at a 2,000,000-share clip today. Gains ranged from $1 to $2 a share, with demand reaching boom-time proportions in the first hour. Activity slowed down a bit in the afternoon but most issues held near early highs.

Resumption of auto wage discussions was a prime factor favoring resumption of the recent rise.

Industrial stocks stood out as market leaders.

MP Dead in Hub Ambulance Crash

An overseas soldier died and a fellow MP was critically injured today when their First Service Command ambulance hurtled a steel girder on the North Chelsea drawbridge, struck a 20-ton oil truck and overturned. Bridge traffic was tied up for hours, while truck drivers, firemen, police and doctors—the latter administering plasma—worked to extricate one victim.

PFC Donald G. Gunsallus, 25, of 17th ave., Altoona, Pa., was pulled free first. He died at Chelsea Naval Hospital two hours later.

PFC Clifford C. Thompson, 25, of Lake st., White Plains, N. Y., the ambulance driver, also was taken to Chelsea, but only after being trapped for an hour and a half.

He gave directions bravely as volunteers sought to free him—telling the doctor who administered plasma to "take care of my watch" and saying to a priest who was ready to administer last rites, "Thanks very much Father, but I'm not a Catholic. I'll be all right. I went through worse than this in Europe."

Hospital doctors said the expert manner in which he was freed saved amputation of both legs, and that he had a good chance of recovery.

The two MP's were traveling toward Charlestown when their car skidded on the freezing surface and hit the bridge before crashing into a truck driven by Walter J. Michener, 47, of Cottage st., Cambridge, driver of one of three trailer oil trucks in convoy.

Harvey Turner, 35, of School st., Somerville, another driver, dashed to the drawbridge tender's shack and called the Navy Yard for an ambulance and help. He said he was told it was a job for the police and then called Charlestown police station.

Told of the alleged refusal to send Navy equipment on an Army mercy mission, Com. Hugh Allen of the Navy Yard said he was making immediate investigation.

Later, Lt. John Burke of Navy public service relations said Capt. F. M. Rhea, captain at the yard, could find no record of calls being made either to the Navy Yard telephone operator or the Navy Yard dispensary.

The Navy's answer declared a Navy doctor at the Chelsea Naval Hospital had gone to the scene when, at 5:45 a. m., the duty officer who had seen Gunsallus admitted declared "We'd better send a doctor."

P. O. JOBS ALL FILLED

No further applications for Christmas season employment in the Boston postal district will be accepted, Postmaster Patrick J. Connelly announced today.

ANGUISHED MOTHER. As the search for her kidnaped baby, Ronnie, goes into the eighth day, Mrs. James Carlan is near collapse at her home. Baby's dad, MM 3c James Carlan, gives her a glass of water in bed today.

New Quiz for 2 In Baby Kidnap

Bit by bit, state detectives and Chelsea police were completing a review of all clues today in the kidnaping of 6-months-old Ronald Carlan, and called in two persons for a second questioning on details which, in the light of re-examination, the authorities want clarified.

Subjected to a repeat quizzing was a 26-year-old man, an acquaintance of the baby's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Carlan. Other witnesses have told police he was seen in the neighborhood the afternoon of Nov. 28, the day of the abduction. Neither Police Chief Charles M. Finn nor state detectives who took part in the questioning with him disclosed the nature of their interest in the man.

Also interrogated was a 17-year-old girl, of early interest in the case, and who at that time gave police information that led their investigation into specific channels.

The grieving mother went on WNAC with her husband today and broadcast another appeal for the return of their child, addressing her plea directly to the kidnaper. The broadcast went through 25 other stations through co-operation of the Yankee Network and the Boston Record-American. Mrs. Carlan said:

"Eight days have now passed since our baby son, Ronnie, was taken from his carriage outside my home in Chelsea. It has seemed like an eternity. Our appeals for his return have brought no answer.

"Today, I am making a different kind of appeal in the desperate hope that my husband and I may at least have the consolation of knowing that our baby is still alive.

"If the person who has little Ronnie is listening to the broadcast, for God's sake don't refuse us this little shred of consolation in our misery. Won't you please send us a message, somehow, to let us know if he is well and being properly cared for? Certainly that cannot be too much to ask of you, whoever you may be or whatever your reason for taking our baby may have been.

"Please don't refuse this appeal from a heartbroken mother and father. Please, we beseech you, send us word of our baby boy. And I beg of all of you who are listening to this broadcast, if you have any information which might help us, please come forward now.

"Either telephone our home at Chelsea 0322-M, or the Yankee Network at Commonwealth 0800 or the Boston Record-American at Liberty 4000, or the Chelsea police at Chelsea 2050. Please help us if you can."

Pappas Hits Wiggin Port Charge, Cites Tax

If the South Boston warehouse occupied by Wiggin Terminals, Inc., had been taxable by the city—instead of nontaxable under the occupancy terms the corporation made with the State—Boston would have received approximately $350,000 in additional tax revenue during the tenancy, the C. Pappas Co., Inc., charged today.

Sherman Whipple, Jr., head of the Wiggin firm, complained Tuesday to the Port Authority because the latter had leased the warehouse to the Pappas corporation. Whipple said Wiggin directors had decided to shut down equipment it employed to fumigate imported foreign cotton at the warehouse.

Judge John C. Pappas, treasurer of the corporation bearing his name, rebutted today wtih the statement his firm had offered the Wiggin company adequate space to operate the equipment and at less money than the Pappas company will have to pay for the space. He said his firm would pay taxes to the city. His statement was:

"In the interest of decency, fair play and accuracy, we wish to answer some of the remarks which have appeared in the press purporting to be comment of Sherman L. Whipple, Jr., in behalf of Wiggin Terminals, Inc.

"We fully appreciate Mr. Whipple's interest in trying to continue his firm's unusually favorable position in the cotton fumigating business, and can well understand his motives.

"To protect the Port of Boston and the welfare of the city, we agreed to maintain the cotton fumigating facilities at the present location, so that no facility of our port may be reduced or impaired. This is consistent with the years of unselfish public service and intensive efforts of our Thomas A. Pappas, in connection with the Port of Boston affairs. Contrast Mr. Whipple's vigorous opposition to the Port Development Bill recently passed by the Massachusetts Legislature.

"We offered the Wiggin Terminals, Inc., all the space it requires for the construction of its fumigating plant on these premises at a rental per section lower than our gross rental for that space. Mr. Whipple declined, because the rental is higher than Wiggin Terminals, Inc., has been accustomed to paying. Naturally, the rent is higher—because it now includes taxes for the city of Boston.

"From the date of our occupancy, the property becomes subject to taxes by the city of Boston!

"The overall compensation which we shall pay for these premises will be far in excess of what was received for this property at any time, even in the war years.

"The trouble seems to be that Wiggin Terminals, Inc., has up to now enjoyed its highly favorable position on tax-free property and it apparently prefers not to pay a rental which must now include taxes to the city of Boston.

"We know of no company anywhere that would not like to have its rental based on tax-free premises, but the Port of Boston Authority was concerned with the best interest of the entire city and the port, and not with the particular desires of Wiggin Terminals, Inc., to perpetuate its own position.

"The public authorities deserve the gratitude of all the citizens for making this property, at long last, subject to its full share of taxes for the city of Boston and a thriving center of business activity, at the same time insuring the continuance of cotton fumigating facilities.

"If Wiggin Terminals, Inc., had not enjoyed its unusually advantageous position for so many years on tax-free property, with an obvious advantage over competitors, possibly other cotton fumigating plants and terminals might have opened in the city of Boston with the resultant benefits of more industry and employment in the city and more business for our port.

"If this property had been taxable by the City of Boston for the years that Wiggin Terminals, Inc., occupied it, it is estimated that the city would have received approximately $350,000 in taxes in that period of time.

"Wiggin Terminals, Inc., were never thrown out of these premises, as some of the publicity implies. They are still located in the building, occupying the same space they have had for the past four years, and they are still operating their fumigating plant. No one has disturbed them. And they can have adequate space to continue if they will pay their fair share of the rent.

"We offered them space sufficient to take care of their cotton fumigating plant at a rental less than we have to pay for that space. They have seen fit to refuse, and instead they have tried to create an impression which we believe to be entirely unfair to us, to the Port of Boston Authority and to the Governor's Council.

"Wiggin Terminals, Inc., seems to be making a desperate effort to continue its own unusually favorable position in the cotton fumigating business which comes into the port of Boston.

"In view of Mr. Whipple's rejection of our offer, which would have enabled Wiggin Terminals, Inc., to continue on the premises at a fair rental, we are required under our lease to take steps so that a cotton fumigating plant will continue on the premises to serve our port. We shall fulfill our obligation, but hope that other enterprises will come to our city.

"Competition is the lifeblood of trade and the public welfare. We do not believe that it is good for the city or the port to have only one company in any particular line of business.

"Wiggin Terminals, Inc., has had a fair opportunity to continue in its business on these premises, but apparently prefers not to do so, except on its own terms.

"In conclusion, in the face of these facts what citizen would want the Wiggin Terminals, Inc., or any other company or individual to operate any business on tax-free property?"

Regular Airport Auto Trips Asked

Airline officials conferred today with the State Public Works Department on a regular schedule to be ordered for limousine service between Logan Airport and Hotel Statler. It was stated that limousines now wait for a pay load before making the run.

At the same time Governor Tobin was studying a transcript of all evidence taken by the State Public Utilities Commission before they turned down a permit for service by the Boston Elevated. He is expected to comment tomorrow.

Quincy Wants Clock-Winder

Quincy is looking for a clock-winder at $100 a year. He doesn't have to be a watchmaker but should have strong legs and sturdy lungs.

Mayor Charles A. Ross today received the resignation of Vance Bukor, local jeweler, who has been winding the clock in the Old First Parish Church for 20 years.

Today the four faces of the clock by which Quincy residents have checked time for generations all tell a different story. But Buker is all done; it's time for a young fellow to take over the task of climbing the church tower.

Girl Stowaways Must Go Back

The British stowaways, Veronica Curtis and Joan Stott, both 20 and both from Birkenhead, England, who outwitted port officials at Liverpool and concealed themselves in the hold of an American ship, will have to go back.

The local immigration board ruled today it was excluding the girls on ground they arrived in Boston without passports or visas and as stowaways. Both girls immediately appealed to Washington to review their case, thus insuring their staying here another week or 10 days at the detention home.

GM Agrees To Wage Talks

DETROIT, Dec. 6 (AP)—In the light of a new government wage-price policy, General Motors Corp. prepared to discuss wages with the CIO-United Auto Workers today for the first time since the striking union brought virtually all GM operations to a standstill 16 days ago. Resumption of full negotiations, including the union's demand for a 30 per cent pay raise, followed a secret meeting of GM and UAW-CIO representative at Pittsburgh.

President Philip Murray of the CIO, who called the meeting, said "all points in dispute" would be considered. Walter P. Reuther, UAW vice-president and leader of the GM wage fight, later added that the corporation had agreed "there will be no strings attached this time."

Girl Student Still Missing

LANCASTER, Dec. 6 (AP)—State and local police today reported they had been unable to trace Carolyn Greene, 16-year-old Binghamton, N. Y., student at South Lancaster Academy, missing from the school since Monday.

Chester E. Kellogg, principal of the academy, a Seventh Day Adventist preparatory school for Atlantic Union College, said the girl apparently headed for Boston or Worcester, seeking a job, and had little cash when she disappeared.

Classmates said Carolyn felt she had not made good at school, and "didn't want to burden her parents," but school records show she was in the upper quarter of her class.

2 Hub Veterans Deny Polygamy

A quarrel with his wife landed Forrest V. Robertson, 39, of Concord sq., South End, in municipal court today, charged with polygamy, after she complained to police he had married her without divorcing his first wife.

Robertson, a war veteran, pleaded not guilty and was held in $2000 for hearing Dec. 11.

Police said he told them his first wife, Jane Popovich of Butte, Mont., had divorced him before he married for a second time in December, 1941. A check failed to locate records of the divorce.

Another veteran, Henry E. Ferrullo, 37, of Shawmut ave., also pleaded not guilty to polygamy charges and was held in $2000 for hearing Dec. 11.

Police Sgt. Francis Donovan said Ferrullo was still married to Helen Adva when he became the husband of Jean Rudick of West Cedar st., Back Bay, in April, 1942.

So. Boston Vet Housing Seen

John Carroll, chairman of the Boston Housing Authority, disclosed today Cong. John W. McCormack advised there is emergency legislation in the works which would provide money to reconvert Camp McKay dwellings in South Boston for use of veterans and their families.

"The buildings can be equipped with heating and hot water quite conveniently as soon as the camp is abandoned," Carroll said. "Room could be provided for 200 families for five years."

Tobin Seeks War Housing To Relieve Shortage Here

Massachusetts is seeking abandoned government housing units—some from as far off as South Portland, Me.—to relieve a local housing shortage which steadily is getting worse, Gov. Tobin disclosed today.

The Governor said the same procedure is being followed here as in New York, where Gov. Dewey has obtained government property for returning veterans and others who cannot find homes.

First big goal is the 380 "knockdown" homes at a Portland government project, built to house workers during the war days of South Portland's shipbuilding industry.

"Atty. Philip Nichols of Boston heads a local committee seeking now to solve the housing situation," Tobin said. "Aiding, without profit, is the John Hancock Insurance Co., which is attempting to make necessary arrangements."

The Governor said it is hoped the buildings can be obtained and brought to Boston, with a section of Mattapan along the Neponset river tentatively chosen as a site.

The homes, vacated since the end of war shipbuilding, are equipped with heating units and have modern plumbing and conveniences.

4 Million Curley Group Deal Told

By STEPHEN B. O'LEARY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6—A Taunton manufacturer testified in district court today his concern declined a proposed contract to make shells for the Soviet Union because it meant whacking up a $4,000,000 commission between Russian officials in New York and the Engineers Group, Inc.

Malcolm Leach, president of the Glenwood Range Co. of Taunton, returned to the stand in the trial of Cong. James M. Curley and four others charged with violating mail fraud statutes in operations of Engineers Group, Inc., to tell of the contract proposal made in December, 1941.

Defendant James G. Fuller and a Maj. Hawkins drove up to the Glenwood plant, he said, in a black, chauffeur-driven limousine, bearing a single-digit Massachusetts registration plate.

"Mr. Fuller asked us to consider a contract with the Amtorg to manufacture shells for the Russian government," Leach testified.

"What happened?" asked William A. Paisley, special assistant to the attorney general.

"We told them the contract was larger than what we wanted or could handle. It ran to about $16,000,000. I don't remember the number of shells."

"Was there anything said about commissions?"

"Yes, they told us we would have to pay a $4,000,000 commission on the deal—$2,500,000 to Russian officials in New York and $1,500,000 to Engineers Group, Inc., for engineering services."

"And you turned it down?"

"Yes; we told them we didn't want that kind of a contract. We felt the expenses and commissions were exorbitant."

Under crossexamination, Leach said Fuller told him the $2,500,000 would have to be paid to Amtorg, the Russian government purchasing commission, if he wanted to get the contract, that it was the way they had to do business.

"Did you have any reason to doubt it?" asked William E. Leahy, counsel for Curley.

"No," we assumed that that was the way it was and just weren't interested. Besides that, our plant didn't have enough ground floor footage to handle such a contract."

"That was the real reason, wasn't it?"

"Well, either one would have been sufficient."

He agreed there had been some discussion of sub-contracts because of lack of facilities for his concern's loading the shells. However, he could not recall that the names of the Johnson Co. of Marlboro, Mass., or the Apco Mossberg of Attleboro, Mass., had been mentioned.

He denied his firm had not sought the $5000 because it felt it had received its money's worth in service, but agreed Fuller had apparently made a sound and diligent effort to get them contracts.

He testified he had no further dealings with Fuller after the conference on the Amtorg contract, but that other officials of the concern maintained relations until Jan. 27, 1942.

Yesterday, Leach had told of signing an agreement with Fuller and tendering a $5000 check as deposit on the strength of Engineers Group, Inc., obtaining war contracts for his concern.

The agreement, signed Oct. 10, 1941, stipulated the deposit was to be returned at the end of six months, if no contracts were forthcoming.

"What were the conditions at the end of six months?" asked Paisley.

"The Engineer Group was insolvent," Leach replied.

"So you didn't get your money back?"

"No; we made no attempt to get it back, the company was insolvent."

Above Ceiling?

NEW YORK, Dec. 6 (INS)—New York justice is not only blind, but expensive.

Following conviction of a youth for simple assault and stealing five cents, court attaches did a little figuring and estimated the trial cost at $1500.

Missing Chinese Beauty Took Family Cash, Gems

Mrs. Chin Suey, 32-year-old Chinese beauty who vanished Oct. 20 with her 6-year-old daughter, Regina, took with her several thousand dollars from the family bank account, jewels, pictures and all her clothing. This was revealed today by Frank T. Y. Goon of the Chinese Merchants' Ass'n, who said the new information leads him to believe Mrs. Chin was not the victim of any kidnaper.

REGINA CHIN, 6
Missing With Mother

Goon, a close friend of the Chins, offered to help in the search when Mrs. Chin's other daughter, Roberta, 10, came to his Tyler st. office in tears and said:

"Please find my mamma for me and my brother"

(The boy is Ralph, aged 12.)

Influential Chinese in other American cities are trying to find some clue to the strange disappearance of the former Wong Mee Ying, once declared the most beautiful girl in Canton, China.

Mrs. Chin came to America 16 years ago to marry Chin, who is 20 years her senior, and since then they have lived on Hudson st.

The marriage was arranged by her father, and she was married in Jamaica Plain three days after her arrival here. Because she speaks very little English, police say it would be impossible for her to find employment outside of a Chinese community.

Old Ironsides Timbers Willed

Bequeathing to her husband, Randolph Frothingham, the "right to use the timbers from the old frigate USS Constitution," the will of the late Mrs. Harriet A. Frothingham of Beacon st., Back Bay, disposing of an estate estimated at half a million, was filed for probate today.

Reed A. Anthony of New York, a son by a former marriage, receives two-thirds of the residue. A daughter, Mrs. Ruth A. Weyburn of Prides Crossing, receives no bequest.

The husband receives one-third of the residue, and the furniture, silverware and historic timbers now in the Constitution Room

ROSLINDALE GIRL HURT

Miss Joyce Sarnie, 19, of Summit st., Roslindale, suffered brain concussion and fascial abrasions today when struck by an auto at Jackson sq., Roxbury, after alighting from a bus. She was taken to City Hospital.

Made Loveless Marriage to Win Back Her Child

Her marriage to a second husband lasted only 12 hours, but she was "indifferent" about his desertion of her, Mrs. Agnes Corrine Wyman, former Wellesley hairdresser, testified in probate court.

As a matter of fact, she said, love had not been her motive in marrying him; she became his wife only to pave the way for reclamation of her little daughter by a former marriage, whom she had relinquished to relatives because she could not support her.

Mrs. Wyman is fighting to recover her 8-year-old girl, Mary Elizabeth, while opposing her are the girl's great-aunt, Mrs. Freddie Hale, Aberdeen st., Back Bay, and Mrs. Hale's husband, Army Lt. Thomas G. Hale. They have had custody of the little girl and want to adopt her.

The little girl's mother broke down several times while on the stand.

Mrs. Wyman told of her marital mixups in a low voice. She had found little happiness in her first marriage, to Bennett Brown, father of Mary Elizabeth, and divorced him. Then came financial difficulties that caused her to hand over her child to others.

She related: "My relatives began giving me advice. I didn't know what to do. I was desperate. I asked an uncle, Bert Cameron of South Carolina, what to do. He took Mary Elizabeth.

"After a while I was refused even the right to visit her. He said I might 'upset' her. I married again. His name was Hendry. My uncle and another uncle told me he was still married. He left me after 12 hours."

Wounded Vets Work for Santa At Navy Hospital

By ALICE BISSELL

"This is the pleasantest medicine I ever took," said S 1c Harold Wallace, 20, of Cleveland ave., Everett, as he painted holly berries on a toy plastic piano today at Chelsea Naval Hospital.

This Christmas season, the new Occupational Therapy building at the Naval Hospital is a place to help our ailing veterans, and also a humming Santa Claus workshop.

Navy occupational therapy technicians, directed by Ens. Gretchen Meyer of Milwaukee, teach wounded men occupations that strengthen them as they work.

Each patient must have a doctor's prescription for these classes.

The men are turning out hundreds of gifts to send to their families and to other patients in the hospital.

At a bicycle saw, designed to work the muscles of an injured leg, a boy cuts wood to be used for toy animals, sleds, and fancy boxes.

At the printing presses, exercising their shoulders, boys are making Christmas cards and stationary of their own designs.

Y 2c Thomas Sullivan, 21, of Belleville, Mich., has painted 20 water color portraits of patients and personnel of the hospital.

Lt. S. M. Ward, III, of Stevens st., Winchester, made a toy train for his son, while S 1c M. W. Casey of Taft st., Dorchester, Okinawa veteran, made a picture frame for his mother.

It is a far cry for CM 2c Frank J. Dunn, 38, of Williams st., Framingham, from European campaigns to painting a doll's crib.

"This will make a nice Christmas for my little girl," he said as he dressed up the crib with parachute silk.

USS Beecher Taken in Tow

NEW YORK, Dec. 6 (AP)—A Navy rescue tug, the Restorer, has reached the drifting troop transport Henry Ward Beecher, and has taken the helpless ship in tow for Bermuda, where they are expected to arrive Sunday morning.

The Beecher, with 541 homeward bound troops aboard, lost her single propeller about 510 miles off Bermuda while en route from Marseille to Norfolk, Va.

A second ship was in distress, the merchantman George W. McCrary, with 586 troops, which radioed it had boiler trouble about 900 miles off Bermuda.

Aboard the Beecher are the 302d Military Police Escort Co. and the 542d and 544th Ordnance Heavy Maintenance companies.

4 Billion Loan Hailed by British

A United States loan of $4,400,000,000 to Britain, subject to approval of Parliament, was announced today in the British press. Official announcement, following 12 weeks of negotiations between the two countries in Washington, was expected to be made tonight simultaneously in the two capitals.

The London press said the agreement called for repayment over a 50-year period starting from 1946, and declared no interest would be payable for the first five years.

Thereafter, the accounts said, the rate of interest would be 2 per cent—about $88,000,000 a year.

None of the London newspapers commented editorially, but the tenor of the prominent headlines given the accounts indicated enthusiastic approval of the agreement both by the Conservative and Labor press.

The ultra-Conservative Daily Sketch termed the loan a "Magna Carta for world trade," and said it would ease Britain's winter.

The Laborite Daily Herald said failure of the negotiations would have meant "further tightening of belts, general imposition of restrictions to avoid a call for dollars, and a period of intensive trade rivalry."

London newspapers said the agreement provided that $650,000,000 would be used in payment for goods in process of delivery to Britain when lend-lease was ended.

Greece Seeks British Loan of 46 Million

ATHENS, Dec. 6 (AP)—An authoritative source said today Greece is seeking a loan of $46,800,000 from Great Britain and release of part of her reserve funds now held by British banks, with the intention of using the entire amount to help stabilize the drachma.

Await Russia O. K. On Mukden Entry

CHUNGKING, Dec. 6 (AP)—Chinese nationalists are within 25 miles of Mukden but will delay entry until Russia approves.

Soviet troops are garrisoning Mukden and there are no Chinese Communists in the city.

Negotiations between nationalist officials, newly returned to Changchun and Societ Marshal Malinovsky were reported resumed and "progressing smoothly."

Sentence Hub Dentist In Attack With Gun

Blasting "lack of supervision" in the granting of gun-carrying permits, Municipal Judge Joseph Riley today imposed a suspended six-months jail term on Dr. Harold J. Owen, Little Bldg. dentist, after he was found guilty of assault with a deadly weapon on a Dewey sq. restaurant employe.

Riley also placed Dr. Owen on probation for five years and filed a drunkenness charge to which he pleaded guilty.

14 Strike-Bound Executives Getting Low on Cigarets

STAMFORD, Ct., Dec. 6 (AP) —Fourteen company executives who are afraid to leave the Yale & Towne Manufacturing Co. plant for fear pickets will not let them return, began today their fourth day of round-the-clock maintenance work in the plant.

They aren't hungry and they aren't quite sleepless, they told reporters, but they are running mighty low on cigarets.

The state board of mediation and arbitration said it was stymied, temporarily, in its efforts to settle the four-weeks-old dispute involving demands for a closed shop and 30 per cent more pay.

After a three-hour meeting yesterday with officials of the company and of the International Association of Machinists (AFL), the Rev. Joseph F. Donnelly, vice chairman of the mediation board, said there had been no progress "and it does not appear there is any point to continuing discussions at this time."

The company holds free access to the plant for all wishing to enter must be provided before other issues can be discussed, while the union has denied the company's contention that its picketing is illegal.

U. S. Secrets Sent to Soviet By Spy Ring

By HOWARD RUSHMORE

Copyright, 1945, N. Y. Journal-American

NEW YORK, Dec. 6—Existence here of a highly-secret Soviet courier system, which may have been involved in relaying atomic bomb information to Moscow, has been uncovered in the investigation of Alfred Adamson, Russian agent.

The head of the system, the New York Journal-American learned, lives in Woodside, Queens, under an assumed name. In trailing Adamson from coast to coast, the FBI learned that the chief courier employs the services of officials of a left-wing maritime union, members, businessmen and even armed service personnel working closely with Soviet espionage leaders.

For 20 years, this Queens courier and his well-trained subordinates have shuttled back and forth to the major cities of the world with military and governmental secrets obtained by their comrades in the espionage division of Stalin's secret service.

Just how much, if any, atomic bomb information—which Adamson is known to have obtained from a Chicago scientist—was relayed to Moscow by these couriers still remains an unsolved part of the FBI case against Adamson.

Adamson, who entered the United States illegally from Canada in 1938, is now surrounded by G-men at a midtown hotel.

His real name and the name of the hotel are in possession of the New York Journal-American.

Adamson was in close touch with the Queens leader of this courier service after the FBI found he had received atomic bomb data from the Chicago scientist in September, 1943.

A year ago, Adamson is known to have passed on information and what is believed to be atomic bomb plans to a member of the Russian consulate here.

His plane flew direct to the Kremlin. The diplomatic pouch he carried, under international law, was immune from search or seizure.

Through an intricate contact system, Adamson is also in weekly communication with an American girl who works in the Soviet Embassy in Washington.

A jewelry store proprietor meets with this embassy employe on weekends and then reports to Adamson.

This Madison ave. jewelry store, the FBI is convinced, serves as one of Adamson's important fronts.

Shockproof

CENTRALIA, Wash., Dec. 6 (AP) — During the Pacific Northwest's gale, light superintendent Paul Peyton answered a call from a woman motorist who reported her car was snarled in power wires at Rainier. She asked him to shut off the power until her machine could be removed.

"How did you get out of the car?" queried Peyton.

"Oh, I just pushed the wires aside with my purse and got out," she replied.

The city's wires at Rainier carry 2400 volts.

Jap Tells How He Beheaded 2 U. S. Airmen

MANILA, Dec. 6 (INS)—A Jap sergeant—speaking as if he were describing the weather—told today how he beheaded two American airmen and one Filipino at Cebu last March 26.

The narrator was Sgt. Takeo Kawa, one of seven Jap soldiers being tried for murder.

"I was sitting on a bench in the normal school yard," he told the commission, "watching Sgt. Maj. Higashi execute a prisoner in a very unskillful manner.

"My capt. Tsurayama said:

"'Go over and give him a hand.'

"I had a dull sword so I borrowed a sword of Lt. Sakai because I thought it brutal to kill a prisoner with a dull sword.

"Then I replaced Higashi and he made the American sit near a foxhole with his hands behind him.

"I stood behind him, lopped off his head with one stroke and he fell into the hole."

The sergeant then told how he argued with Lt. Sakai about beheading the other American and said the lieutenant made him do the job.

Start Day Push For Victory Loan

Massachusetts has already met one challenge of the Victory Loan drive by reaching its quota of $130,000,000 worth of bonds already sold to individuals, and in the next five days the drive will concentrate on putting the state over the top by purchasing $592,000,000 in all types of bonds.

Following are the figures for the Greater Boston area: E bonds, $17,338,000 or 44.1 per cent; other sales to individuals, $74,376,000, or 151.5 per cent; total to individuals, $91,714,000 or 103.9 per cent.

National Medical Ass'n Okays Sister Kenny Fund

The National Medical Ass'n yesterday informed Bing Crosby that its members had unanimously endorsed the national Sister Kenny Foundation drive for $5,000,000 to extend the work of treating victims of infantile paralysis.

Its indorsement will give new impetus to the drive here, Bert McKenzie, New England field director, said today. "Although Sister Kenny has been here for five years, the public generally has little idea of her great work," he said.

The drive to raise $200,000, the Massachusetts quota, will extend through this month. Contributions should be sent to the Sister Kenny Foundation, care of Bert McKenzie, 46 Church st., Boston.

Compton Extols Jap Cyclotron

Destruction of Japanese cyclotrons by the Army was an "act of utter stupidity," Dr. Karl T. Compton, president of M. I. T., declared today in a letter to War Secretary Patterson.

Dr. Compton, one of the leaders in atomic research, said he had inspected two Jap cyclotrons several months ago and had participated with MacArthur's control officer in drafting regulations under which Jap scientists might carry on nuclear work.

AN URGENT NEED

THE REPORT of the special legislative commission headed by Joseph P. Kennedy, former Ambassador to Britain, is an important first step in the building of the better, more generally prosperous Massachusetts.

Adoption of the commission's regulations by the Legislature should be the next step.

An aggressive State Department of Commerce is an urgent need.

As the Commission itself says:

"Massachusetts has already shown a burst of energy which resulted in the projected vast expansion of its assets—ports, airport facilities and highways.

"It would be ironic, indeed, if the Commonwealth left unguarded the source of its economic well-being—its industries and trade.

"It would be sacrificing the future on the altar of conservatism if the Commonwealth did not boast of its assets to the State, nation and world, and set out to destroy the obstacles, frequently mythical, that have too often appeared as barriers to new enterprises."

A MILLION-DOLLAR annual budget for the State Department of Commerce is not too much.

The expenditure is completely justified, as the Commision further declares, by the magnitude of the problems we face, by the needs of the organization required to handle these problems, by the necessity of adequate advertising and publicity funds, by the competitive expenditures of other States and by the facts and figures of our Commonwealth's very serious decline industrially in the period after World War I.

Actually, the budget represents an investment of only one dollar a year—less than two cents a week—per Massachusetts family, which is hardly an extravagant outlay for more abundant employment opportunities.

Mr. Kennedy and his fellow commissioners did not reach their conclusions hastily or without reason.

Investigation showed them that in 1923 there were 10,494 industrial establishments in Massachusetts.

But in 1939, the last normal prewar year, the number had dropped to 9007.

The value of industrial products turned out by Massachusetts plants in 1923 was $3,551,000,000.

By 1939 it had slumped to $2,460,000,000.

The number of industrial jobs in 1923 was 666,603.

By 1939 it had dwindled to 460,674.

In the same period industrial wages fell from $798,703,300 to $503,923,284.

Wherefore, concludes the Commission, "statistics tell the story of a decline in industrial jobs in Massachusetts during the period following World War I, leading to the depression bottom of 1933, out of proportion to the loss in other industrial states.

"And no solace can be found in the comparative rate of recovery achieved in the ensuing period ending in 1939—the last year reflecting no major wartime distortion.

"IN THE FIRST PERIOD, MASSACHUSETTS WENT DOWN HILL FASTER THAN TWENTY OTHER LEADING INDUSTRIAL STATES.

"AND IN THE LATTER PERIOD, ONLY ONE STATE IN THIS GROUP—RHODE ISLAND—MADE A SMALLER PERCENTAGE OF RECOVERY."

IN THE LIGHT of this convincing evidence, a practical and profitable State Department of Commerce is indispensable.

We might save a million dollars by postponing the vital agency and continuing our hit-or-miss policies and practices of the past.

But the saving would be offset and nullified by the loss of jobs and industries worth fifty million dollars or more.

The time has come to work with each other, for each other.

And the surest, best way to do it is to accept the recommendations of Mr. Kennedy's commission.

A SOLDIER'S wife reports she has gained 30 pounds since her husband went overseas three years ago. Now his return is imminent. The young woman says she loves her husband very much and has been extremely lonely and worried in his absence. Yet she fears when he sees she has gained 30 pounds he may feel inclined to question her love and loneliness. She asks if our Horses & Women Department has any suggestions which may simplify her problem. We suggest this subscriber to cease worrying. Lonely women are inclined to eat more than they should. The fact this young wife gained 30 pounds indicates she greatly missed her husband. So say our H. & W. experts who state there is considerable scientific opinion available which will back their claim.

PLEASE NOTE: Many men who have for years been reading in racing charts and other places how many lengths a horse won by do not know how long the length of horse is. That these men may cease to be ignorant on so vital a matter we call attention to fact that the average racehorse measures eight feet from the tip of his nose to the base of his tail. A racehorse usually covers the distance of his own length in one-fifth of a second.

This old boy commuted via the Twentieth Century Limited which stops at Ft. Wayne. That certainly is high class commuting. I don't think this banker should have been eligible to compete with the poor devils who had to do their commuting in day coaches.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1945, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6—Although the late President Roosevelt robustly enjoyed to broadcast the private business affairs of other citizens, especially the sources of their income, retrospect has developed the fact that he was always secretive about his own investments and profits.

Westbrook Pegler

It has been established, however, that Franklin D. Roosevelt was once one of the owners of a company-town, company-store coal property at Vintondale, Pa., and that his uncle, Frederic Delano, for nine years chairman of the National Resources Planning board, at a good salary by his nephew's appointment, and numerous other Delanos had an interest in the same property. At last reports, various Delanos still had this interest.

From a source close to the United Mine Workers I have received some memoranda on the Vintondale mine and a similar mine at Graceton, in the adjoining county, in Pennsylvania. Slightly edited in the interests of brevity and for other reasons but without distortion, the accounts follow:

★ ★ ★

"THE MINE at Vintondale, Pa., owned by the same interests as the Graceton Coal Company, is known as the Vintondale Colliery Company and is located in Cambria County, 18 miles north of Johnstown. Work was begun in 1902. The town consists of 225 houses which are in a very run-down condition. On an average there have been 400 men employed.

"This mine paid dividends for many years. In 1939, the United Mine Workers secured $60,000 back wages due and resulted in reopening the mine which is prospering at present.

"The U. M. W. in 1914 conducted a seven-month strike to organize the mine but failed. A chief so-called guard, on a horse, patrolled the only roadway leading into the community. In 1919 and again in 1922 efforts were made to organize.

"The district union many years ago succeeded in buying a 40 by 60 plot of ground facing the large company store. In 1922, a meeting was advertised to take place on the lot. Immediately the coal company secured an injunction stopping the meeting. The Civil Liberties Union became interested and Arthur Garfield Hayes came from New York. Months of litigation ensued.

★ ★ ★

"IN BOTH CASES (at Vintondale and Graceton) the coal companies controlled the political situation with the result that they controlled the schools, the churches and the local administration of law. Armed guards patrolled the town.

"In 1933, in the wave of organization, this town and mine became organized over-night. Once the fear of the guards was removed the men immediately joined. They have since been good members.

"These coal companies had financial difficulties in 1939 not because of the wages paid or of working conditions of the union contract but because of the top-heavy capitalization, admitted to in conference by Mr. Delano. During World War I, these mines paid dividends of over 100 per cent.

"The Graceton Coal Company opened a mine in 1894 and built a town of approximately 100 houses, most of them double houses, and a few single houses for the officials. The town was called Graceton. A large company store was erected where the miners bought their necessities at high prices. Efforts of the U. M. W. to organize this mine were always resented by the coal company.

"Throughout the years 280 men were employed on the average. "The U. M. W. struck this mine in 1916, 1919 and 1920, without success.

"The company paid a higher yardage rate (of which there was little yardage) than its neighboring union mines but had no check-weighman and paid on a car basis. This was the only mine paying in this manner in Central Pennsylvania. The U. M. W. organized this mine in 1933. The mine had no scales at its tipple and the union had to give it a two weeks' grace period so that scales to weigh the coal could be installed.

"The union secured a 50 per cent increase immediately over the 65 cents a car paid for a two-ton car of coal while the scales were being placed."

★ ★ ★

Our press and the Republicans were grievously remiss, I think, in their failure to inform the public of Mr. Roosevelt's and the Delanos' financial interest, past or present, in these properties and the social and economic conditions in these company towns.

Hollywood Today

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 6—The amazing Ben Bogeaus, who not only qualifies as the town's Adonis but who manages to get in some of the best deals in Hollywood, has a honey of a new one. He is sharing Casey Robinson's rights to Gregory Peck for one picture. Remember, it was Casey who discovered Greg and he has the biggest interest in him, although the handsome Peck is divided in more ways than any actor in the world.

The picture will be based on "The Short Happy Life of Francis Macomber," by Ernest Hemingway, which Hemingway himself thought was the best thing he had ever done. I also hear Ben is also arranging to produce with Casey "The Life of Pavlova" with Casey's very pretty wife, Tamara Toumanova, the ballerina, as the star. That's been the dream of her life—and you know Casey, anything the lady wants is what he wants, too. A picture based on Pavlova's life would be very interesting and slightly different from the same old things we have been seeing on the screen.

NEWS FROM Vivien Leigh was given me by Mrs. Rex Harrison, wife of the English actor who is a close friend of hers. Vivien, Mrs. Harrison believes, will be cured in six months, because only one lung was affected. "Whether she'll return to work or not I don't know," said Mrs. Harrison. She won't come to Hollywood because she will never leave Laurence Olivier, who, at the moment, is England's number one actor. Arthur Rank is one person who also believes that Vivien, at the end of six months, will be well enough to work. He is holding up "Mary Queen of Sco[illegible] until she recovers. This particular version of the Queen of the Scots is based on "The Gay Gallliard" by Margaret Irwin, author of "Young Bess."

THE HOLLYWOOD WOMEN'S PRESS CLUB once a year has its say about which stars are the most co-operative and which the least co-operative. The girls base that decision on the number of interviews granted. Most of these girls are fan magazine writers and press agents. There are very few newspaper women. Joan Crawford and June Allyson are the girls who have been voted the most co-operative, Gregory Peck and Dana Andrews the men who are most in favor. The actresses who were voted the least co-operative are Lauren Bacall and Greer Garson. The least co-operative males are Fred MacMurray and Ray Milland. I just can't get over Ray Milland being on that list. Of course, we can only judge people as we find them and I have always found him to be a lamb for interviews where co-operation is concerned.

ANOTHER deep sadness in the life of Susan Peters was the death of her mother, Mrs. Abbie Carnahan, at St. John's Hospital yesterday. Mrs. Carnahan passed away in her sleep following a severe heart attack, and knowing the deep devotion between Susan and her mother, this seemed almost more than the girl should be asked to bear. But Susie took it with the courage and stamina that has sustained her through everything ever since her own tragic accident which occurred last year and which has confined her to a wheelchair. Our deepest sympathy to Susie and her husband, Richard Quine, and our heartfelt admiration for her courage in the face of such sadness.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Mrs. David Selznick slipped quietly back into town and her first visitor was her husband. Their friends are hoping this means a reconciliation, both for their sake and for the sake of the two little boys; Margaret Roach's new romance is Don Piper. All she needs now is to get papa to give his blessing; Charles Brackett has just been given a new five-year deal at Paramount for $3000 a week. Personally, I don't think that's enough - that guy has everything. You're welcome Charlie and Billy Wolder. I've heard everything. John Wayne's girl friend, Esperanza Bauer, is taking flying lessons; the baby girl Laraine Day is adopting, will arrive in time for Christmas. She already has a little boy; Both Mrs. Franz Werfel and Dr. Bruno Walter deny that they have any intention of getting married, and ask that a denial be made; the old classic "Merton of the Movies," becomes "Mary of the Movies," because Judy Garland is the star. Speaking of Judy, Harry Warren has just presented her with a miniature plastic piano for her baby.

Her brother, James, arrived home for Christmas after three years in the Army in the South Pacific; David Niven gets here Dec. 23. He won't have the usual housing problem. If John McClain's offer falls through he'll have Rosalind Russell's guest house. That's all today.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6—Van Johnson, who lived in New York for several seasons as a nice young blond "nobody," has never set foot inside the Stork Club, "21" or the Colony, and when he thinks of coming East he dreams of visiting all the glitter places he couldn't afford before his ingenuous grin and rumpled hair became cinema gold. He doesn't believe the society belles and sabled dowagers in the Colony will swoon over him when he lunches there; I have a small bet with him that they will drool into their caviar at first sight of his freckled facade . . . Harry Cohn, the motion picture producer, can see movies at any hour of the day or night by walking six or seven feet. He has a private projection room adjoining his office at the studio, and one at home.

CLARK GABLE likes gray, perhaps because it brings out the becoming gray at his temples. When I saw him last he was leaving Romanoff's to get into his gray, low-slung car. He was wearing a gray, chalk-striped suit and gray shoes, and carrying a giant bottle of brandy or liqueur as if it were a very young baby . . . The current rage among the younger and jive-conscious set in Hollywood is a faintly decayed-looking young man named Harry (The Hipster) Gibson, who managed to escape notable success when he appeared on 52d st. in New York but is deservedly a big success at a place named Billy Berg's on Vine st. Here, while waitresses in dark slacks slouch from table to table, Harry bangs the piano beautifully and emits such ballads as "Who Put the Benzedrine in Mrs. Murphy's Ovaltine?"

Harry is a Juilliard graduate, but although he wears his blond hair long, he is no long-hair. When he sings, blue cords appear on the side of his neck like rivers on a relief map, and his eyes get a glassy finish. Sometimes he mounts the piano bench and crouches there between arpeggios, with his hands curved in front of his face like a trumpet player making with riffs. His admirers are fond of whispering that Harry the Hipster has only a year to live, but that is generally regarded as a legend—just one of the colorful legends about Harry that keep the customers crowding into Billy Berg's.

THE MOST exquisitely groomed woman in Hollywood is Norma Shearer, who has a way of sailing serenely into a restaurant or a party looking as if she had arrived in tissue paper instead of a taxi. Her hair (now strawberry blonde) looks polished; her skin is the kind photographed in soap advertisements, and her black wool suits never seem to pick up any little white threads. She looks prettier and more radiant now than she did 10 years ago. She leans on her husband's shoulder in public and calls him "darling."

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6—This has been an extremely trying week for us serious political experts. It has been almost impossible to pin down Washington bigwigs to discussion of the large issues of the day. All they want to talk about is football.

The halls of Congress resound, not with the names of Truman and Reuther, but Blanchard and Davis. And the same goes for other sounding boards from which the voice of the turtle-backed bureaucrat is heard in the land.

It seems all this was brought about by a football game between Army and Navy. Apparently everyone here with a dime's worth of drag—which means quite a few of our residents, reading from left to right—attended this contest and came away convinced the Army team can do anything.

Many have been carried away to the point where they profess to believe Army can even whip the best professional eleven. They keep telling each other a post-season game should be arranged to settle the question.

If I have heard the proposal once this week I have heard it a hundred times:

That Army should meet the East-West winner of the National Football League!

* * *

THE IDEA sounds all right in conversation, but actually it is absurd. The best football team any college could possibly get together under scholastic rules couldn't beat the worst outfit among the major professionals.

After all, colleges with all their proselyting, are restricted to enrolled students, but the pros can go out openly and hire the best among graduates from all the colleges of the land.

Whether you like the idea or not colleges, footballically speaking, are the farms for the pros. Footballers come up from schools like ballplayers come up to the majors after conditioning and seasoning in the minors.

After a session with Monday morning coaches on Capitol Hill, I managed to get an interview with Mr. George Preston Marshall, owner of the Washington Redskins. This is a very difficult achievement in itself as Mr. Marshall is practically a hermit, under vows of silence. And anyone who has seen the get-up he wears at football games understands the origin of the expression, "sackcloth and ashes."

Mr. Marshall said he would give me the situation in a nutshell. I do not know what kind of nutshell he had in mind, but if there are any nuts that big they could be scraped out and used for dirigible hangars.

"The difference between a college team and a professional team," he said, after the first 86,000 words of preamble, "is the difference between a little theater play and a Broadway production. The little theater play is often amusing and lots of fun, but it can't compare with the professional offering.

"Or it's the difference between an interne and an experienced surgeon. Or a college newspaper and a big daily with experienced reporters and wire services. Or the difference between you and a writer capable of passing a sanity test."

At this point I begged permission to withdraw from the presence. But I would still like to see Army's Blanchard and Davis charge down upon Mr. Marshall.

* * *

I ATTENDED the Army-Navy game as the guest of Brig. Gen. Joseph F. Battley. Later we were joined by Mr. Harry Wismer, the sports broadcaster, and, after an evening of our company, Gen. Battley revised his opinions about the horrors of war.

Mr. Wismer took us to a place he described as one of his exclusive out-of-town clubs. As we were leaving this deadfall, the gorilla on duty asked us to sign the register.

Apparently the club does not have many generals on its roster, because, when Gen. Battley wrote down his name and rank, the gorilla looked very disapproving.

"Please don't play tricks with that register," he chided. "The secretary looks it over every morning!"

* * *

CADET ROBERT DUNCAN, a plebe at West Point, had a rather unnerving experience the night before the Army-Navy game. He was having dinner with Miss Lucy-Ann Burns, daughter of Col. J. R. Burns, now with MacArthur in Japan, and announced he would like to get a bet on the contest.

Miss Burns looked around the room.

"There are some Navy men over there," she said. "Maybe if you needled them enough they would bet you."

Cadet Duncan agreed the idea was brilliant. He strode over to the Navy table, bowed with exaggerated courtesy, and inquired if anyone in the gathering would be interested in wagering on Navy's chances.

One officer looked at the plebe and said he would make the traditional Army-Navy bet—one cuff link. But a gruff voice interrupted, saying:

"No, I will take up the bet."

Cadet Duncan reached out a hand to the gruff one to seal the wager, but pulled back as if he had been stung.

The bet-taker was Adm. Bull Halsey!

Furthermore, the admiral paid off.

"Oh, it's only you, Henry. For a minute I thought there was a man in the house!"

The Brighter Side

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

By Damon Runyon

During George Holland's vacation, the Boston Evening American presents a daily article by Damon Runyon, famous short-story writer and novelist.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6—I stand, head bared, in awe and admiration before a stack of printed pages higher than a cat's back which are labelled "Supplement One, The American Language." It seems to me an afterthought of nigh onto a thousand pages to a literary effort by H. L. Mencken, one of the three wise men of a city that is called Bal'mor'murrylan' by friend horse thief Burke, one of its citizens.

A statement on the jacket of this gargantuan accumulation states that so much new material has accumulated since the publication of the fourth edition of "The American Language" in 1936 that a separate volume was deemed advisable to contain it. Hence this "Supplement One," though it is nevertheless an independent work and may be read without reference to its predecessor.

* * *

NOT alone is it the prodigiousness of Mr. Mencken's work that awes me. There is the fact that at a finnif a belt, or five dollars per copy, the volume would not seem calculated for large circulation and the great revenue that is always so pleasing to an author. It might happen, of course, and I hope it does, but the chances are against it.

* * *

THE MONUMENTAL Mencken production confirms my long standing impression of the author that he does not care for money. This impression was first formed years ago when one of the Hearst editors was saying to me that he would like to hire Mr. Mencken, then flourishing like a green bay tree, a situation or condition I would explain more fully to you if Mr. M. had thought to include a definition of a green bay tree in his book.

"What do you think he'd want in the way of salary to do a column for us?" the editor asked. "How much would you offer him as a starter? I've got an engagement with him tonight to talk terms with him."

"I'd offer him the top price you have in mind without any shilly-shallying," I said. "I hear you are willing to go to $50,000 a year. Offer him that at once."

* * *

I MET Mr. Mencken some time after that and asked him if he had met the editor and had received an offer and he said:

"Yes, I met him. We had a talk but I don't recall that he said anything about an offer to me."

Later I asked the editor how come and he said:

"Well, he didn't impress me as a man who would take $50,000."

* * *

I HAVE LONG revered Mr. Mencken for two reasons: First, his tremendous writing ability which when he was exercising it in newspapers made any columnist you can think of past or present seem a sophomore by comparison, and second, because he used to publish my doggerel and pay me money for same.

That was when he was running the Smart Set Magazine with George Jean Nathan, now popularly accounted one of the last barriers of erudition between dramatic criticism and complete illiteracy. (Remember, boys, I say one!) I think Mencken and Nathan may have been the greatest literary battery we have ever had. I do not know why they split up. I discredit the rumor that it was because Nathan felt he could do better with the dames single-o. Maybe it was the result of a row between the ones publishing my verse.

But anyway, Nathan went off on his own to become a white-haired, florid dramatic critic in the tradition of the greatest writers on theatrical topics we have ever known and Mencken became a lone wolf newspaper commentator and a great hand for Baltimore boyhood reminiscence and the foremost authority on words that American literature has yet produced.

* * *

MENCKEN'S reputation will live in our literature long after most of the other writers of the present day have been forgotten. I could never make a contribution like his because I would keep thinking how much I could get for the same number of words marshalled into a different form. And of course I could never in this world devote the time and the profound study and research that "The American Language" represents. It is my conjecture that this has to be a labor of love.

* * *

YOU must not let the title scare you away from this tome. It is colorful reading. Mencken could not write about anything whatever without making it colorful. I cheerfully recommend the book though I think is only fair to add a word of caution. Please be careful and do not let it fall on your toes.

Serve Baked Potatoes

By MARTHA LEE
Household Editor

BAKED POTATOES are definitely back. Butter and baked potatoes go hand in hand, and butter rationing has ended at just the time that the heat from the oven is a pleasant thing in the kitchen.

There are many ways to make a baked potato better, and the most important is careful timing. Many a cook who is careful about the cooking and serving of green vegetables is casual about the baking of potatoes.

BAKED POTATOES

Here's the way to go about baking a perfect potato. Choose potatoes of uniform size. Wash and dry them. Bake in a hot oven (425 deg. F.) from 40 to 60 minutes or until tender. With a fork prick criss-cross gashes in the skin of the baked potato on one side. Then pinch the potato so that some of the soft inside pops up through the opening. Now drop in the butter or margarine. Or perhaps you will like meat drippings and a dash of paprika.

Of course, you want to eat the skin of the baked potato—full of minerals as it is. In case you prefer the skin softened, rub a little fat on the potato before baking.

STUFFED POTATOES

Cut large baked potatoes in half lengthwise. Scoop out the inside. Mash; add fat and seasonings. Stir in hot milk and beat until fluffy and smooth. Stuff back into potato shells, brush top with melted fat, and brown in a hot oven. This becomes a main dish when you add chopped leftover cooked meat or grated cheese.

EGG AND POTATO SCALLOP

2 tbsp. fat, melted
2 tbsp. flour
2 cups milk
1 tbsp. minced parsley or water cress, if available
1½ tsp. salt
Pepper
6 medium-sized cooked potatoes, sliced
4 to 6 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
1 cup soft bread crumbs

Blend melted fat and flour thoroughly. Add the milk. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add the parsley or watercress, salt and pepper. Place alternate layers of potatoes and eggs in a greased baking dish and pour the white sauce over the top. Sprinkle with the bread crumbs. Bake in a moderately hot oven (375 deg. F.) 15 to 20 minutes or until the crumbs are browned. (For variety, use cooked peas or sliced green beans in place of the potatoes.)

Potatoes are liked in most any meal from breakfast to dinner. Try some of these methods of cooking them:

PITTSBURGH POTATOES

4 cups diced uncooked potatoes
1 small onion, minced
1 tsp. salt
2 pimientos, cut in strips
2 cups medium white sauce
1 cup grated American cheese
½ cup cracker crumbs
2 tsp. butter or margarine

Place potatoes in kettle with onion and salt, cover with boiling water and boil for 5 minutes. Drain and add pimiento strips. Place in a greased baking dish. Prepare white sauce by melting 4 tbsp. butter, blending in 4 tbsp. flour and adding 2 cups milk. Stir constantly until a smooth, thickened sauce is formed. Season with salt and pepper and add cheese. Pour over potatoes in baking dish. Sprinkle with cracker crumbs and dot with butter. Bake in a moderate oven of 350 deg. F. until browned, 20 to 25 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Beauty Blushing Oil Aids Glamor Fashion

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE
Beauty and Fashion Editor

LET IT SNOW . . . let it snow . . . let it snow! Some of us are "crazy" for the snow . . . love to romp in it with the reckless abandon of a spontaneous youngster.

The snow means cold . . . and the cold is usually invigorating. It brings a healthy glow to our cheeks and our complexion looks like an apple in human form. We look at our rosy cheeks and we say to ourselves . . . if it could only be that way for keeps . . . for we look so pretty when we blush.

It was Mark Twain who said it "Man is the only animal that blushes . . . or needs to." Little did he realize that one day his statement would be taken literally by womankind in their search for beauty. Yes, we need to blush.

Our shy progenitors who blushed prettily at the drop of a bon mot . . . owed some of their prettiness to that blush which came and went so readily . . . that quick rush of blood to the skin was nourishing their complexions. That's why we look so grand when we've had an outing in the snow and the stimulated blood of our bodies rushes with renewed vigor to the face to light it up like the cardinal red bow on a holiday wreath

WITHOUT MASSAGE

Yes, we know that the skin is fed by the blood-stream . . . and the cosmetics we use externally should . . . if they are good and proper . . . aid in increasing the flow of blood so that it may do its work of nourishing the skin . . . of bringing to your complexion the wonderful life-giving blood which provides the elements needed for the cells of the skin to renew themselves constantly. When this is done . . . the exfoliation of the old dead tissue is quickened and the pores have a chance to rid themselves of the blackheads and whiteheads which clog them.

There is a blushing oil which will greatly encourage the flow of the blood to the surface of the skin without massage. It is a hydronized oil and contains no gum, or wax, acids or caustics. Therefore, it leaves no residue of itself to annoy and embarrass the pores. The skin is then free to do its important work as an organ of elimination. It has been said . . . and justifiably . . . that a blushing skin never wrinkles . . . so before the lines get the better of you. . . . BLUSH your way to a new and ageless beauty. Enjoy a romp in the snow . . . by proxy!

For the name of this skin-blush nourishment, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope.

SO IT'S ONLY a Hollywood still . . . where the make-believe is sometimes very real. But Jinx Falkenburg is such a pretty damsel . . . and the snow man illustrates our point . . . and taking the two together makes an interesting and appealing picture. And that's the way a woman should look . . . eye-catching and fatal and not beyond snow-playing days.

THE FAST-MOVING world in which we live serves as deep-meaning inspiration for this Florence Reichman-designed caballero of gaily hued straw braid . . . sewed in stripes in siesta colors . . . and ready to go south with a smart tailored suit. The uncompromising upturned sweep . . . revealing the face and hairline . . . is indicative of the hopeful future . . . a theme which most of the milliners have translated in their interesting headgear. Bettina Bolegard, one of the nation's topflight hat models, wears it—R. M.

Loves Older Gir.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I'm 20 years old and just returned from the Army, where I've been for the past three years. While I was away my mother rented one of the bedrooms to help out, and now I've fallen in love with the occupant who is a lady six years older than I am. Perhaps it sounds silly to you, but I just can't get her out of my mind.

This young lady goes out with other men about her own age, and it just does me up when I see her go with them. But I can't feel angry toward her. What shall I do? EX-SOLDIER

I'm not going to tell you you're too young, but I would like to remind you that every man who has amounted to anything has had the same kind of despairing love affair in early youth.

George Washington pined in adolescence, and it did much to make a man of him. So did Lincoln and Shakespeare. The latter married his lady and regretted it. There's nothing unusual about falling in love when you're 20 with a girl who is six years older. But you've got to take yourself in hand and try and become interested in someone or something else. Why not take refuge in good, hard work?

Colored Ink O. K.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1—I like to sign my Christmas cards rather than to have my name printed on them. Is it proper for me to use colored ink for my signature, and in some cases for the message or note I add to the printed message?

2—Also, is it correct for me to write my name and address on the backs of the envelopes? I have a book of return-address stickers . . . is it all right to use these on the backs of the envelopes?

DOROTHY

1—I'm glad you prefer to sign your Christmas cards. It certainly makes them more warmly personal and friendly. And yes, it's entirely proper to use any color of ink that harmonizes with the decoration or wording on your cards . . . the Christmasy red is usually the choice. A fashionable New York store includes a bottle of red ink with its specialty musical-score Christmas cards.

2—Yes, it's sensible and safe to write your return address on the backs of Christmas card envelopes, particularly those going to people whose address you are not certain about. Or, if you prefer, it's quite all right to use return-address stickers, although these, I think, look more commercial than handwriting.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: I am to be married at a nuptial mass at ten o'clock in the morning. The bridal party is to be formal. What is the correct apparel for the bride's mother and the bridegroom's mother to wear? Would you say that long dresses are in good taste for them? A. H.

If all the details of your morning wedding are to be carried out on formal lines as I judge they are to be, it is indeed correct and in excellent taste for your mother and the bridegroom's mother to wear dresses of formal length, floor-length. And even for a semi-formal, daytime wedding it is proper for "the mothers" to wear dresses of formal length, although the street-length dresses are permissible.

Waistlines Spotlighted

By BETTINA BEDWELL

THIS is a winter in which waistlines are being put in the spotlight by a lot of things in the styles like that skin-tight baby waist, by inflated hiplines, and by belts being the biggest and most important in years. All these things are likely to make your own personal waistline a problem child in your figure family if you don't stop and look at it with a stern parental eye.

Big, noisy studded belts, fur girdles and such things are going to make even the slimmest waistline look bigger. And what they do to you with husky waistlines is too sad to contemplate. They make your waistlines look like they belonged to an elephant.

A slim looking waistline, though it is only an optical illusion, is one of the best points a girl can have, so you ought to treat it with respect, and encourage it. You ought to try to get one if you

MRS. JOHN MOSELEY ABBOTT of Marlborough st. had a pleasant surprise yesterday when she unexpectedly became the model for a portrait bust sculptured by Suzanne Silvercruys, internationally famous artist, who was the star at Mrs. Wm. Dana Orcutt's Morning of Diversion.

While discussing her happy philosophy of life and her associations with such famous people as Katie Hepburn and Wendell Willkie whom she has modelled, Mme. Silvercruys modelled a remarkable likeness of the attractive Mrs. Abbot, who was sitting in the front row. "I chose her because of the character in her lovely face and because I had met her daughter at Winsor and thought she would enjoy having a bust of her mother," the artist told us later.

Mrs. John Abbot

Mrs. Abbot, thrilled with the idea of surprising Anita with the sculpture, wore a slim black dress with jewelled belt, off the face hat framing her blonde hair and a mink coat. With Mrs. Charles E. Bacon, a guiding light of the Florence Crittenton League, she later attended the League's annual bazaar for lunch, Christmas shopping and a fashion show. Others taking in both events were Mrs. John Palfrey, Mrs. Robert Hoffman, Mrs. John O'Day, Mrs. Paul Clark and Mrs. Randolph Post Eddy.

THE FIRST formal party in Bradley House since its acquisition by Garland School will be a Christmas high tea Saturday from 6 to 10. Bradley House, with its handsome crystal and gold ballroom, was the scene of many unforgettable parties in the day when Rosamond Bradley, now Mrs. Charles A. Rheault, was a debutante, and Garland students are planning a memorable affair for their first formal. The girls themselves are making all the preparations, even to providing the menu, designing and sewing their own gowns, and making all the decorations.

Guests will include Mr. and Mrs. Rheault, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rittenhouse, Mrs. Huntington Hardwick, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Greene, Mr. and Mrs. Harold B. Richmond, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Green and Mrs. Gladys Jones, president of the school.

Of interest to hostesses planning Yuletide parties is the menu Eva Lowry and her food committee are providing—turkey a la king with pastry points, green salad, cranberry relish, hot rolls, plum pudding with foamy sauce and coffee. Elizabeth Leahy heads the decorations committee, Marie Emmott and Priscilla Richmond are also committee chairmen.

William Gaxton Thanks Vaudeville for Training

Though it is a far cry from the days when William Gaxton was touring the country as a vaudeville headliner, he is more apt to talk about that hectic time of his life than of his subsequent Broadway and Hollywood triumphs.

Gaxton, who is co-starred with his favorite and long-time co-star, Victor Moore, in the new 'round-the-world musical, "Nellie Bly," opening at the Shubert Dec. 18, was a two-a-day contemporary of W. C. Fields, Marilyn Miller, George Jessel, Ed Wynn, Sophie Tucker, the Marx Brothers and, of course, the mirth-provoking Moore.

"It is," Gaxton has been heard to say, "the finest training in the world for gauging the timing of a joke to its trigger point; for judging audience reactions in both pathos and comedy, and for acquiring a canny knowledge of show business generally.

"My favorite vaudeville actor of the time was Jack Donahue," Gaxton, as ebullient and handsome as ever, recalled. "But most of them were darn good . . . and vaudeville was wonderful entertainment as well as the best schooling.

"We lived a a hearty, full life In spite of our strenuous trouping, we managed to make friendships that lasted and to enjoy a host of happenings that we cherish as golden memories.

Phil Regan to Greet "Queen for a Day"

As an added attraction to the regular stage and screen program, Phil Regan, popular songster, will appear on the RKO Boston stage today at 2:30 p. m. to greet the lucky person who is selected as 'Queen for A Day" at that show.

Phil is currently starred in the screen hit "Sunbonnet Sue," which is now on the screen of the RKO Boston and will sing the hit songs from this film plus many of the hits of the day.

Land of Opportunity; U.S. Road to Fame, Fortune

By AUSTEN LAKE

I TRUST YOU WILL AGREE that the history of American sport is a scale model of the history of our national endeavor. It came as a nobody from nowhere, has had its peaks and hollows, its heroes and bums, its princes and paupers. As a testimonial to our free enterprise, American youth has attained sudden fame and rainbow gold from humble beginnings. Let's look!

A tea-colored Negro is bred in an Alabama share cropper's cabin, raised on the cobblestones of Detroit and apprenticed as a factory swipe. He blooms as the fistic sensation of this prize ring generation and by knocking out the liver and lights of some 54 rival pugs, becomes champion and amasses more than a million, tax clear, in a few years—Joe Louis!

A Norwegian shopkeeper's daughter is groomed from the age of 4 as an ice ballerina, cultured in her parents' charm school and made mistress of the glacial arts. She matures into a luscious bundle to wow the ice centers of Europe, becomes 10 times world scooting champion, thrice No. 1 Olympic darling and comes here to cash in and enrapture our winter sports and cinema fanatics. So, at 33 she has pickled close to a million dollars—Sonja Henie.

Fish Refugee; Amazon

A PACIFIC COAST ITALIAN immigrant owns a fishing smack. He also sires four sons. Three foresake the hardship of the fish-nets for vocational baseball. One discovers the secret of the Ruthian clout, lands with the money-making Yankees and, after an interlude in the Army, returns to sign a $45,000-a-year contract, or more money for six months of fun than his daddy can save in a lifetime of hard toil—Joe DiMaggio.

A Scandinavian ship carpenter's wife conceives a girl baby at sea during a heavy storm. The child grows up to be a firm-limbed, flat-chested lass with masculine qualities and a knack for boisterous sports. She dominates the ladies' division at the Los Angeles Olympics, tries her hand at pro baseball as part-time pitcher with the House of David, gives the late Willie Stribling a bloody nose, becomes wife of a career wrestler, and blooms as the nation's No. 1 female golfer with some $100,000 to her credit at current reports—Babe Didriksen.

A Maryland miner's son, weaned in the anxious economy of the Cumberland hills and schooled in adversity in the soft coal pits, discovers an abnormal gift for throwing a five-ounce baseball at 122 feet per second. He rises to become the toast of the supper editions as a moody, left-handed pitcher with the Athletics and the Red Sox and at 39 retires to his native crags with $225,000 in insurance trust funds—Lefty Grove.

A Canadian farm boy grows up in the frigid fastness of northland winters, amuses himself by poking a rubber plug around local duck ponds with a curved shillelah. His capacity for punishment is the roughest give-and-take sport known to man promotes him into commercial hockey and guides him into association with a sport-minded Boston business man. Time passes and the old Canadian boy grows growly, beloved or hated, and joint proprietor of hockey's best paying firm—Art Ross.

A New York freight clerk answers the call to his nation's colors in World War I, sees AEF action with the leathernecks, is mustered out with $60 discharge pay. But he does not go back to his waybills and demurrage audits. He uses his fists instead and for a single night's effort at Chicago on September 22, 1927, collects a check for exactly $1,000,000—Gene Tunney.

An Italian shoemaker's boy helps the family budget by caddying after school at the Apawamis Club, Rye, N. Y. The father objects to the son's growing interest in such nonessential pursuits as golf and prefers contests in bricklaying and general pick and shovel work. But the lad persists, wins the U. S. and British open and the PGA tournaments and gains a livelihood from play, endorsements and royalties that gleans some $50,000 a year and lifelong independence — Gene Sarazen.

Tennis Gigolo; Hobo

A SMALL TOWN BUTCHER'S SON, born 40 miles south of Seattle and supported into manhood by his mother's earnings, becomes a tennis gigolo and tours the supercilious social centers of the country. As a prewar national champion he becomes a big box-office lure and later, as a professional, earns $70,000 in his first coast-to-coast tour and is said to have set aside subsequent earnings to retire himself into luxury.—Ellsworth Vines.

A Toronto tyke grows up with an unholy fascination for the horse tracks. A whispy schoolboy, he survives parental scoldings, and becomes an apprentice rider at Rockingham. In the last three years, despite one almost fatal fall, he has become one of the nation's top contract riders, with commissions running into $50,000 per annum and a lavish home at Miami.—Ted Atkinson.

An Irish farm kid is born in the boulder-peppered slopes of West Cork and, in adolescence, enlists in the Free State Army. An agent of Boston's mat-maestro, Paul Bowser, finds him tossing a 56-pound weight in the Curragh-Gaelic games and freights him, prepaid, to Boston, where in the ensuing years he collects a fungus ear, an American wife, an independent fortune and, by special permission of the copyright owners, the world's grunt title. He is now a big chicken and waffle impresario on the Pacific Coast—Danno O'Mahoney.

A hobo from the Western mines with a dash of Indian blood rides the freight couplings, sleeps in haystacks and robs henroosts for dinner. First through hunger and then by predilection he fights his way through the bucket-of-blood clubs to the top of the ladder, earns an estimated $3,000,000 and becomes entrepreneur of of New York's big munch-and-gargle emporiums—Jack Dempsey.

It could only happen in America under our system of personal initiative and free enterprise. Let's keep it that way!

PEABODY LAD CHOSEN

Minors 21-3 for Curb on Chandler After Blast

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 6 (AP)—The major league traders finally accomplished a player deal today, but the minor leagues supplied the fireworks by curbing the baseball commissioner's power over them only a few minutes after the commissioner himself pleaded with them against legislation "offensive and obnoxious" to him personally.

The minor leagues listened to a short speech by Commr. A. B. (Happy) Chandler, who approached mention of his row with some baseball men by pointing out he "did not seek the job" but intends to hold it for seven years. Then he pointed to "resolutions before you that are offensive and obnoxious to me personally."

The minors then quickly approved, 21 to 3, an amendment to baseball law taking away the commissioner's authority to declare any of their legislation "detrimental to baseball." This was the rule which gave the late Comr. K. M. Landis most of his power.

The convention went on to refuse approval of proposed legislation which would have wiped from the books minor league rules governing bonuses—which Chandler had ruled are both "unfair and illegal." These rules stipulate that no player below class AA can receive a bonus for signing contracts and no manager can receive a bonus or any part of the purchase or draft price of player.

Minor League Head Judge W. G. Bramham later said any bonus contract will be approved by him from class AAA down to D.

The convention approved the advance of the International League, American Association and Pacific Coast League to new AAA classification. Tabled until tomorrow was a vote on the bid of the Pacific Coast League to step up into the major leagues.

The lone big-league player deal was the sale of right-hand fastballer Johnny Humphries by the Chicago White Sox to the Pillies, but of equal importance was the New oYrk Yankees' roster-clearing sale of Outfielder Hershel Marti nto the Oakland Pacific Coast League club.

The revised major-minor league agreement, as drawn up by the minor league revision committee, headed by Eastern League President Tommy Richardson, was approved and now goes to the majors for concurrence. Contents of ahis new pact have not been disclosed, but it is reported it contains a section which also clips some power from Chandler.

Both deals were straight cash transactions. Humphries, a temporary holdout last season, reported to the White Sox late and never rounded into peak condition.

Martin was bought by the Yankees from Milwaukee in 1944 and played considerable outfield ball in the absence of Joe DiMaggio, Tommy Henrich and Charley Keller.

At its convention session today the minor leagues approved, by a vote of 22 to 2, creation of a minor league classification of AAA, which had promised to become the chief point of argument during the meetings.

Creation of the new triple A classification moves the International League, the American Ass'n and Pacific Coast League from their present AA status to the new advanced group.

However, the Pacific Coast League already has voted to make the jump from AA classification to the major leagues.

Victor Collins, president of the Hollywood club of the Coast League, today introduced a proposal asking that the coast circuit be allowed to withdraw from the national association to become a major league if the advance is approved by the major leagues at their joint meeting in Chicago next week.

At the request of the International League a vote on the coast loop's proposal was delayed until tomorrow.

The minor leagues' morning session was opened by Baseball Comr. A. B. (Happy) Chandler, who said:

"I did not seek the position of commissioner but it was voluntarily offered me by the 16 major league owners."

"I have a contract for seven years, and for seven years I intend to make decisions for baseball which you are not able to make yourselves," asserted the commissioner who has had several rows with baseball men in recent months.

"If you've got anything to say to me, say it to me. I have found out that you talk behind a fellow's back. But I find it out because you fellows can't keep secrets.

"I'm going to do the best I can with God's help to render just and fair decisions. You've got resolutions before you that are offensive and obnoxious to me personally. If you pass them, that's O. K. If you pass them, I want to know that."

Despite Chandler's speech, the minor leagues passed by a vote of 21 to 3 an amendment to their rules which has been regarded as a move to curtail the commissioner's power over the minor leagues.

The amendment reads, "No major-minor league rule and no act or procedure taken in compliance with any such major-minor league shall be considered or construed to be detrimental to baseball."

The only dissenting votes to the amendment were cast by the Southern Ass'n, the Texas League and the Sally League.

Braves Seek Talent; Sox Standing Pat

By JOE CASHMAN

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 6—Not a trade involving Boston has yet developed beyond the rumor stage at the minor league meetings. The rumors, as usual, are many. Those involving the Boston clubs have the Red Sox bidding for Pat Seerey, Cleveland Indian outfielder, and the Braves being interested in buying any National League star who is for sale.

The Seerey story is strictly a rumor, according to Manager Joe Cronin. It came from a Cleveland source even before the Sox pilot arrived in town, which gave rise to the belief that Skipper Joe had started negotiations before leaving Boston.

But Joe, on checking in here yesterday five hours late, due to bad train connections, denied he had ever talked to the Indians about any of their players.

"As a matter of fact," he said, "it's news to me that Seerey is for sale. I had read that the Indians would trade Pitcher Jim Bagby and Outfielder Jeff Heath but nobody else was mentioned in the story.

"I wouldn't be interested in Bagby or Heath. I could use another outfielder and I think Heath is a fine player, but I don't think he'd do as well at Fenway Park, being a left-handed hitter.

"I would be interested in Seerey, a powerful right-hander hitter, if the Indians should make me a proposition. But I'm not going to take the first step.

"To tell you the truth, I don't plan to try to make a single trade either here or in Chicago. I prefer to wait until spring training starts. Maybe by that time, we'll have enough players back from the armed forces to fill all our needs. If not, I can try to buy somebody then.

"I'll listen, however, if any club makes me a proposition which would result in us acquiring an experienced outfielder."

The Braves, on the other hand, openly admit they are in the market for infielders, outfielders, catchers and pitchers and will be seeking same.

It's being taken for granted generally that the Tribe will land Walker Cooper, Cards' great catcher, if nobody else.

Owners Louis Perini and Joe Maney, arriving yesterday on that same belated train with Cronin and Eddie Collins, immediately grabbed John Quinn and went into a huddle with Manager Frankie Frisch of the Pirates, at the latter's request.

Then the Tribal trio set out in search of Sam Breadon, Cards' owner.

"We're making no predictions or promises", said President Perini, "But we'll be greatly disappointed if we don't pick up an outstanding player or two before we get back to Boston."

None of the conferring parties would say what Pittsburgh player had been offered or what was asked in return. Guessing that Frisch is willing to part with Bob Elliott, his star third-sacker, if he can get what he wants in exchange. For before the meeting with the Braves bosses, Uncle Franz reputedly had offered Elliott to the Phillies only to discover Herbie Pennock couldn't or wouldn't meet his demands.

Classy Lightweights In Providence Go

Among the classiest lightweights in the game today face each other in the weekly fistic show of 10 rounds at the Elks Hall, Providence, tonight. The principals in this fray are Pat Scanlon, Hell's Kitchen, New York and Vince Dell Orto of Philadelphia.

Dell Orto has been in Boston action many times.

TO REPLACE BIFF JONES

LINCOLN, Nebr., Dec. 6 (AP) Lt. Com. Bernard A. (Bernie) Masterson, 34, was named yesterday to succeed Col. L. McC. (Biff) Jones as head football coach at the University of Nebraska. Jones announced his resignation Monday.

Pretzie Has Chance to Gain Title, Says Lamar

By JACK CONWAY

HENRY LAMAR'S first love is boxing even though he did a very commendable job coaching Harvard's informal football team while Dick Harlow was away at war. Lamar has done much to instill interest in boxing at Harvard and at other colleges. As a result of his efforts fine young men like Peter Fuller, 21-year-old son of former Gov. Alvan T. Fuller and a former member of the Marine Corps, will box in the heavyweight class at the amateur boxing show of the American Veterans of Foreign Wars at Mechanics Building on January 23.

Henry Lamar

It is impossible to measure the amount of good that former athletes like Lamar do when they become coaches at Harvard, Boston College, Boston University, Holy Cross and at other colleges.

Lamar first came to New England as a boxer. He was one of the leading mitt welders at the University of West Virginia. He came from a family of jurists who had great educational background and who had their share of the goods of the world.

"I always felt boxing gave me much in return for what I contributed to it," said Lamar as we chatted during a recent football luncheon.

"I was fortunate I was in action in the ring when Jack Dempsey, Gene Tunney, Jack Sharkey, Jim Maloney, Harry Wills and other prominent heavyweights were in the limelight. I was in the same fistic stable with Jack Sharkey. I always admired Jack. He was one of the best boxers the heavyweight division ever knew. His left hand was as fast as Jim Corbett's left."

Likes Louis to Win

I ASKED Lamar who he thought would win when Joe Louis opposes Billy Conn in their bout for the heavyweight championship of the world in New York next June.

"I like Louis to win," replied Lamar. "Louis has done everything asked of him. He has successfully defended his title 21 times. He has not sidestepped a single rival. His record shows he has always crushed an opponent when he met him for the second time. There are the cases of Schmeling, Pastor and Godoy. Billy Conn will be another exhibit.

"Conn has put on weight and now scales 191 pounds. Billy was a speed fighter, and when he made his great stand against Louis he only weighed 175 pounds. Remember what happened when Tommy Loughran built himself up from 175 pounds to 184 pounds to fight Jack Sharkey? Sharkey knocked Loughran out in three rounds.

"Add weight to a speed fighter and he hasn't got any speed. The same is true at the race track and on the football field. Race track secretaries stop the greatest of thoroughbreds by packing additional weight on their backs. Even if Conn takes off five to eight pounds, he still will be too heavy and Louis will lick him sure."

★ ★ ★

"WHO WILL be the next heavyweight champion of the world?" I asked Lamar.

"Some kid that has been in the armed services and who is not very well known right now," he said.

"The next champion may be Johnny Pretzie of Watertown who boxes Jay D. Turner at the Sharkey A. A. show at the Arena on Friday night. Pretzie has youth, can land a pulverizing punch, is a good boxer and possesses courage. I would rather back a youngster like Pretzie for the title than string along with Conn.

"I note Conn picks Turner to win. Billy wishes to be kind to Turner who once went ten rounds with him. I will ride with Pretzie over Turner."

Dick Harlow interrupted to say that college football will be a pretty rough game for the next three years.

"Returning service men have been taught to be rough," said Dick. "You cannot expect a kid just back from a battle area to show politeness in a football game. They will use rough tactics."

It is power that wins in football and in the ring. These returning service men have won the right to become athletic champions, and, like millions of other people, I shall be rooting for these kids to scale the heights and take the glory and the wealth that goes with being the kingpin in any sport.

Brimsek B's Goalie in Chicago

By BILL GRIMES

Manager Art Ross, who is recovering from a heavy cold and another attack of neuritis, answered the question which has been puzzling the hockey fans for a fortnight. Paul Bibeault will remain with the Bruins through this season.

But, Mons. Paul will not make the trip to Chicago, for Uncle Arthur has decided to use Frankie Brimsek in the nets against the Hawks on Sunday.

Although he didn't say so in so many words, Ross probably plans to alternate Bibeault and Brimsek for the remainder of the season.

After the grand exhibitions he has been giving while the Bruins have been home, Paul Bibeault merits being retained. But for Mons. Paul, the Bruins would not be riding on the crest of six games without a defeat streak.

From his sick bed at his Brookline home, Ross released the following statement. "Paul Bibeault is going to remain with the Bruins through this season. He is going to be paid his salary in full and will have a full share of any player's share coming to the Bruins.

"I want you to know that I consider him a member of the Bruins squad and I want you to know that for this year he is our property anyway.

"We are going to start Brimsek in Chicago, Sunday night. Paul will not make the trip. We are going to find out in Chicago whether "Brimmy" has had enough work to be ready for his return to play after his long absence. It make take him a few games to adjust himself.

"I promised Bibeault a fair deal. He is going to get it. After the way he has played for us and the fine spirit he has shown, I do not intend to have him kicked around by anyone. You can rest at ease as to what is going to happen to Bibeault.

"I think we are extremely lucky to have two goalies of the caliber of Bibeault and Brimsek. It was not so far back that I remember we didn't have even one goaler."

It is apparent, reading between the lines of Ross' message that Brimsek will be the regular goalie as soon as all hands are satisfied that he's back at his pre-war time form.

It was a smart move on Ross' part to have Brimmy start his comeback away from home. However, the Blackhawks are anything but a soft touch at home or on the road.

Naturally, Brimsek will be in a tough spot when he makes his first appearance on home ice. It's rough to follow a goalie who has been as effective as Bibeault. But, bear in mind that when Brimmy broke into the N. H. L. he succeeded Tiny Thompson, whom the majority of fans thought was the greatest of all goal minders.

The Bruins moved into second place by hanging a 6 to 3 defeat on the Blackhawks last night. They opened up a two goal lead in the first period, stood off the Hawks in the middle stanza and then when Eddie Wares' third period marker cut their lead to one tally, put on the pressure and won going away.

Milt Schmidt finally got a break and scored a goal. All season, he has been the victim of spectacular goal minding. Last night he deflected the puck into the cage for the Bruins' fifth tally. Then, he grabbed the puck and handed to Win Green to keep for him.

After the game Milt said "I hope I don't have to wait 12 more games before I score again." Now, that he has broken the ice, Schmiddy is going to be tough to stop. His inability to score was really getting him down but he's up now, so watch him.

During the melee in the third period, Paul Bibeault was nicked over the left eye and when the battle was over Dr. Thomas A. Kelley applied one stitch to the cut.

The Hawks, high scoring line didn't get any points last night. Milt Schmidt, Woody Dumart and Jack McGill covered the Bentleys and Billy Mosienko very affectively.

When Doug Bentley attempted to catch a high shot, he looked like Butch Nieman of the Braves challenging a line drive.

The U. S. Coast Guard was well represented at the Garden last night. Frankie Brimsek and Eddie Barry, of the Pics, served with Johnny Mariucci in the Coast Guard and they were in a huddle, along with Herb Ralby, after the game.

It was questionable if Schmidt's injured knee would hold up for the entire game. But, Trainer Wing Green did a fine job of bandaging and Milt was able to travel at top speed through the contest.

The Blackhawks stayed over last night and left today for home on the New England States. After losing to Toronto and then the Bruins Coach Johnny Gottselig is a little bit down in the dumps today.

Manager Art Ross is ill and didn't attend the game. Doubtless he listened to the third period, which was broadcast, and must have been thrilled when Schmidt registered his initial post war goal.

The Bruins practice today at the Arena and will leave for Chicago tomorrow afternoon. Their tilt with the Blackhawks in Chicago on Sunday will be their first away from home game since they beat Rangers in New York Nov. 11.

Once again the Bruins were outshot by their opponents. Paul Bibeault was called upon to make 25 saves to Mike Karakas' 17.

Although they didn't cash in on the play, Don Gallinger and Billy Shill put on one of the prettiest combination plays of the season in the opening period. At that Mike Karakas was obliged to come up with one of his best Sunday saves to prevent a goal.

The Rossmen have lost but one game in their last nine starts. They are really rolling, which is bad news for the other N. H. L. clubs, but, strictly speaking, they haven't reached the peak of their form by a long shot.

Yale to Give Gridmen Breaks

By HERB FINNEGAN

Yale knows not what course Harvard may take, but as for herself—well, she's not barring her doors to good students of modest means who can play football. So stated Chet La Roche at the Gridiron Club's seventh annual "Bull" Lowe dinner at the Lenox, at which HC's Stam Koslowski was honored as N. E.'s outstanding collegiate football player.

La Roche is a former Dorchester High athlete who scored plenty of TD's at Exeter and Yale and who since has scored plenty of TD's in the advertising and radio world. Successful? He lives at New York's Waldorf.

La Roche was a lad of modest means in his days on Norfolk st. He never gave a thought to college. How could he? But the famous John O'Reilly coached him in those days, told him a good athlete could work his way through college, and helped him get started on the high road.

La Roche told of his days at Exeter, when Tom Enwright, Eddie Casey, Austen Lake, "Bull" Lowe and other ambitious youths got up at 4:30 a. m. to stoke furnaces and study.

"They made us work for everything we got at Exeter, and they made us study," he said. "But that's all we asked—the chance to work our way."

La Roche isn't a believer in athletic scholarships as such. But he does believe in giving a good football player a chance at college education. To this end, he would have high school coaches see that their athletes take the college course, so that they can get into college and remain there.

"If they want to go to Yale, if they can pass the entrance exams, send them to see me," he said, not forgetting to add "if they can play football. I'll see them through."

So there, you all-scholastic football players. You don't have to go to a Southern college and study only football for your degree. If you study and want to go to Yale, get in touch with Chet La Roche.

★ ★ ★

"That'll make a wonderful Christmas present for my mother," beamed Koslowski after being presented with an engraved wrist watch. The HC captain, who "plays golf better than football," according to Fr. Edward Welch of Pawtucket, has already shipped his golf clubs to Miami where he hopes to get in a few rounds before the Orange Bowl game. Koslowski once shot a 65 at Tam O'Shanter, Chicago . . . Ox Da Grosa was his eloquent self as he traced Kos's 1945 games, one by one. Kos extolled his teammates "who made it possible for me to win this award" . . . Players besides Koslowski considered for the award by Dan O'Connor, Bill Ormsby and Swede Nelson were: Frost of Dartmouth, Trojanowski of Ct. State, Laiikos of Brown, Hollingshead of Yale, Penn of Yale, Alexander of Dartmouth and Dieckleman of Holy Cross. But the committee voted unanimously for Koslowski, and Gov. Tobin, Paul Swaffield and La Roche heartily endorsed their selection

Threaten Pics' Record at Home

The Boston Olympics will lay their undefeated, untied record on home ice right on the line this week-end when they meet two Eastern Hockey League clubs at the Garden. On Saturday night the Pics face the Washington Lions, and on Sunday they meet the strong Philadelphia Falcons.

To date the Olympics have won six games on Garden ice, their only losses and tie games having come in road engagements. Against the Lions in Washington they dropped one contest and tied one, while in addition they lost one tilt to Falcons in Philadelphia and tied one game in New York. Overall the Pics have won nine, tied two, and lost two of 13 appearances.

The Olympics will have to work hard to maintain their record at home, for at what practice sessions they have been able to schedule, Coach Hago Harrington has been working with half a squad. Permission was given a half dozen of the boys to take the opportunity provided by a week's league layoff to visit their folks north of the border.

All will be back, however, for the two games this week-end. Saturday night's game will have the usual 8:30 p. m. starting time, while the Sunday afternoon contest, at 3 p. m., will be the first Sabbath afternoon showing of the Pics here this season.

Profile Ski School Ready for Classes

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

"To teach the American style of skiing" is the aim of the newly-brmed Profile Ski School, which is ready to hold classes at Cannon Mountain, Franconia Notch, N. H., under the direction of Roger Peabody.

None is better qualified for such an assignment than this able exponent of the winged boards, who was raised in the shadow of the bayonet-like peak, donning the hickories as soon as he was able to walk. We first met Roger nearly a decade ago, when covering a race in Franconia, and were immediately impressed with his smooth style, as he schussed and swerved between the flags . . . Former head of the Cannon Mt. Ski Patrol and ex-Univ. of New Hampshire star, the lithe lad has held a Class "A" racing rating since 1934 and attended Otto Schneib's initial school for instructors.

Assistant instructors will be Bobby Ball, a graduate of the Mountain Troops, another clever slalom satellite, of Franconia; and Ray Witcher, just out of the AAL, erstwhile captain of the University of N. H. ski team . . . Talent, indeed!

"The main objective of the average skier at Cannon is to be able to ski down-mountain, and in this respect we have made the goal of our school, safer, smoother down-mountain skiing," stated Roger.

Classes will be conducted daily on the new practice slope, adjoining the Valley Station, where a rope tow will roll . . . The more experienced skiers will be shown how to run the trails, which Roger, Bobby, and Ray could actually schuss in the dark—they know 'em so well!

SKI SCRIBBLINGS: Hundreds of skiers jammed the slopes at Pico Peak, Vt., over the week-end, according to Janet Mead. Four inches of powder covered an eight-inch base, creating good conditions . . . Walter Prager brought his ski team candidates over from Dartmouth, and the boys enjoyed a nice work-out.

At Snow Valley, Manchester, Vt., there's more than two feet of fluff, but a base is needed for safe skiing . . . Holiday bookings at the Worthy Inn reveal that all records for crowds will be smashed while every ex-serviceman is anxious to participate again in one of New England's greatest sports . . . Walter Rath is out of uniform and is now active in the affairs of Snow Valley.

Bissonette Named Hartford Manager

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 6 (AP)—Del Bissonette, who finished out the past season as manager of the Boston Braves, will pilot Hartford in the Eastern League next year, John Quinn, head of the Braves' farm system, announced today. Bissonette took over with the Braves following the resignation of Bob Coleman last week. Coleman will manage Evansville in the Three-Eye League next season, Quinn added.

For both men it will mean return to old teritory, Bissonette formerly managed Hartford, and Coleman was head man at Evansville.

Ted McGrew, ex-N. L. ump and scout for the Dodgers, was named today to succeed Bob Quinn as head of the Braves farm system.

* * *

A new row between Commr. Happy Chandler and the minor leagues was indicated today in an Associated Press report from Columbus. This story related that Chandler told the minor executives that he knew they talked about "a fellow" behind his back; that he was in control for the seven years of his contract; and that some resolutions of theirs which they were due to consider were "offensive and obnoxious" to him.

Shortly thereafter the minors voted 21-to-3 in favor of a resolution which is generally considered to be aimed at curbing his power.

Another move was made by the Pacific Coast League to gain major league status, but a vote on this was delayed until tomorrow.
